

DRAFT CAMPGROUNDS LIST

Disclaimer: THERE IS NO ASSURANCE THAT ANY RESOURCE OR ACTIVITY I'VE FOUND OR DESCRIBE WILL BE AS 'ACCESSIBLE' AS YOU MIGHT NEED. Or information may be out of date. Use the information at your own risk.

In theory, these lists provided by each national forest should identify wheelchair accessible campgrounds. But frankly, the lists they provide are seldom checked by staff, so do call the offices for the most recent information.

Best bets for first time campers:

Siskiyou County:

- Juanita Lake Campground (USFS Klamath)
- Tree of Heaven Campground (USFS Klamath)
- Kangaroo Lake Campground (USFS Klamath)
- Fowlers Camp (McCloud Falls area, Shasta Trinity National Forest)
- Cattle Camp (McCloud Falls area, Shasta Trinity National Forest)

Shasta County:

- PG&E Campground near Cassel and Baum Lake
- Bureau of land Management Pit River Campground near Fall River
- MacArthur-Burney Falls State Park

Other good choices are PG&E campgrounds, and BLM campgrounds. Alas, it's difficult to get information on either. PG&E tends to provide really good wheelchair accessibility. BLM campgrounds are generally wheelchair friendly, but not ADA.

BLM revised their web site in 2017, and the result has been a tremendous loss of information that was previously available. However, their local staff is knowledgeable, so do call and ask questions, or email them.

The campground list is woefully incomplete, but hey, it's a draft.
